

Update from State of California Governors News Conference

Governor Gavin Newsom spoke today advising his plans to reopen the West Coast State. As we enter into phase 4 of the pandemic, Governor Newsom unveiled Six Indicators that will guide California how to modify the stay-at-home during the Covid-19 pandemic. Consideration to modify the stay-at-home order must be science based and data driven and gradually rolled out.

The Six Indicators for California are:

- The ability to monitor and protect our communities through testing, contact tracing, isolating, and supporting those who are positive or exposed.
- The ability to prevent infection in people who are at risk for more severe COVID-19.
- The ability of the hospital and health systems to handle surges.
- The ability to develop therapeutics to meet the demand.
- The ability for businesses, schools, and childcare facilities to support physical distancing; and
- The ability to determine when to reinstitute certain measures, such as the stay-at-home orders, if necessary.

Governor Newsom stated there is not a specific time for modifying the stay-at-home order, but the above six indicators will guide the framework for making that decision. Click Here to view California's Roadmap to Modify the Stay-at-Home Order.
